Mrs. Marjorie M. Triebert

The members of the Class of 1968 lovingly dedicate this year's annual to Mrs. Marjorie M. Triebert. Mrs. Triebert has taught almost all of us and we know that she has many sterling qualities. To us one of the most outstanding of these is her complete and unfailing sense of fairness. When you take a problem to her, she will give you and your problem her undivided attention. If she thinks your complaints are justified, she will tell you so and will do her best to help. She will tell you, too, if she thinks you are wrong and will take the time and the trouble to explain why she thinks so. She is also inclined to dwell on a person's good points and soft-pedal his shortcomings — she knows that we all have some of both.

Just as many ingredients go into the making of an especially delectable cake, many different traits of character are included in the make-up of a fine person.

We should like to present what we shall call, for lack of a better term, a "character recipe" for the kind of person we feel Mrs. Triebert to be:

- Take a well above-average degree of intelligence
- Add a generous amount of patience and understanding
- Put in a goodly quantity of physical attractiveness
- Add a keen sense of humor
- Put in a dash of strictness — a highly necessary ingredient at times
- Don't leave out the diligence given to each task nor the important spirit of determination
- Combine with love, affection, and interest in the aims of students and colleagues alike, and you will find that you have a rather remarkable person — Mrs. Marjorie M. Triebert.

Administration

and

Instruction

Superintendent

Mr. Ben E. Hoffmeyer

We are very proud of the Class of 1968. This class has always been one of our best classes academically, vocationally, and socially. Your leadership has been excellent, and we hope for you continued success in all of your endeavors.

Build your lives around a strong moral framework, and the storms of life will not destroy you.

Principal

Mr. H. G. Royall, Jr.

Throughout life you will face numerous anticipations, successes, disappointments and failures. All should be faced with fortitude. Learn to wear a smile and keep a courageous heart. With this attitude there is nothing too great for you to conquer, and your contribution to society will prove great.

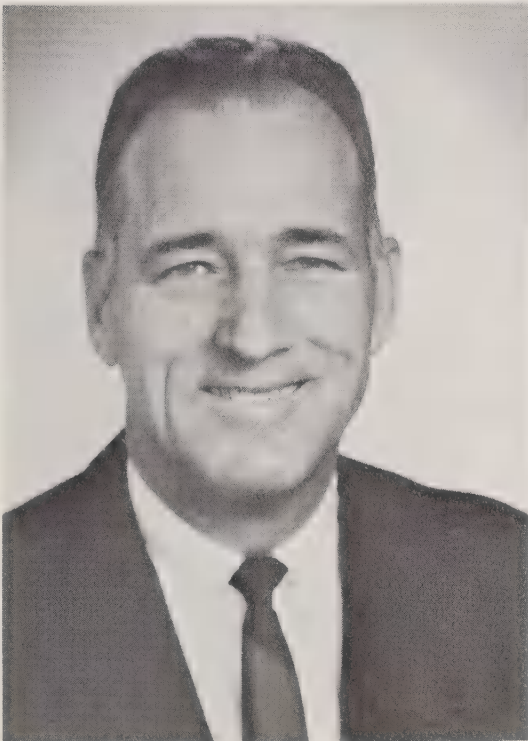

Educational Director

Mrs. Jane C. Williams was appointed to the new position of education director of the North Carolina School for the Deaf July 16, 1967. This new position was greatly needed to permit full concentration in the area of curriculum. Mrs. Williams is outlining a new curriculum for all levels at our school. She works closely with the teachers, supervising teachers, and the teacher training department to help them in any way possible.

Mrs. Jane C. Williams

Mr. William A. Greene

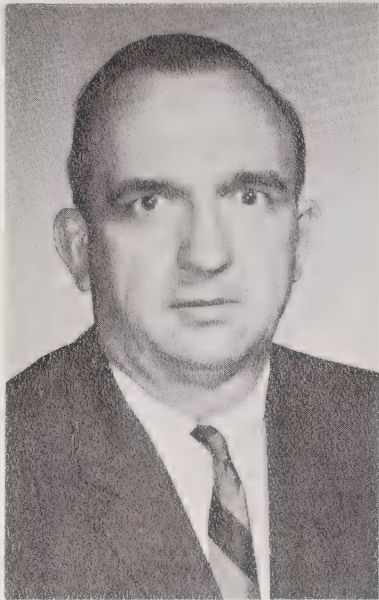

Dean of Students

Mr. Greene is in his fifth year as dean of students and has this year assumed the responsibility of athletic director. He is directly responsible for the dormitory personnel, activities, student affairs, and the coordination of all athletic events. We are fortunate to have such a capable person to serve in this capacity.

Retiring This Year

Mrs. Margaret Chisolm Simmons

Mrs. Simmons is one of those remarkably unique individuals standing apart somehow from the others within the entangled web of human involvements. She is a descendant of a hearty Scottish family whose stubborn independence helped open up new frontiers. Into her years have been packed mammoth portions of rich and vital experiences.

When she retires this year, she will have completed a thirty year tenure as administrative secretary at NCSD. During those thirty years she has retired one superintendent, broken in a new one, and helped launch him through seventeen years of service.

Procedures have changed, policies have changed, students have entered and have been graduated, the human forms who have occupied various desks and executive chairs have appeared and disappeared, but the untiring energy of Margaret Simmons has been a continuing source of strength.

She has approached each task, whether it has been humble or proud, with the same degree of determination. Though her responsibilities have ranged from loading children on a bus at 6:00 a.m., to preparing administrative reports at midnight, it has all been in a day's work for her.

She has known each student by name and has kept account of all his major and minor accidents and illnesses. She has used a home-grown variety of the sign language which is understood only by her and her deaf friends.

She has always despised piety and so-called dedication, but has approached her work with a degree of dedication and basic goodness achieved by few people.

It is inconceivable that any other person, no matter what his qualifications, can ever adequately replace her. Her strength of character and the diligence which she has given to her work, however, may serve as an inspiration to her successor.

— Copied and condensed, with a few additions, by ABS from a sketch written by Mr. David M. Denton, Superintendent of the Maryland School for the Deaf

Mrs. Katherine Walton Thomason

As a teacher for 45 years and as principal of Joiner Hall for 25 years, Mrs. Katherine Walton Thomason has greatly influenced the lives of many deaf children. Because she finds her greatest pleasure in working directly with children, Mrs. Thomason has spent as much time as possible in the classroom. An excellent speech teacher, she has always stressed the importance of good speech for her students. At the same time she has maintained an open mind and a receptiveness for new ideas and new methods. She believes firmly that each child should be taught in the manner most appropriate to his abilities and interests.

The experience and wisdom which Mrs. Thomason possesses cannot be replaced. Her retirement creates a void which cannot be denied. We are grateful for her many years of devotion to deaf children and we sincerely hope that the years ahead will be happy, satisfying ones.

Class Prophecy

BY GLENDA CABLE

After I was graduated from Gallaudet College and had completed two years of graduate work at the Sorbonne in Paris, I decided to visit some of the countries in Europe, Asia, and in other parts of the world before returning to the United States. I bid my most remarkable professor at the Sorbonne — Mrs. Gary Chilton, the former Linda Sanders — a fond farewell before flying from Paris to London.

I knew that there was only one former classmate living in England, so I decided to pay her a visit. I was delighted when Lady Doreen Rogers Asquith invited me to have dinner and spend the night at Buckingham Palace where she and her husband, Lord Asquith, have a suite of rooms. How I envy her, knowing that she doesn't have to do one bit of housework! I enjoyed the delicious dinner, but I almost fell flat on my face in my soup when I found that James Meek was the Asquith's butler! Doreen and her husband permitted James to join us in the drawing room after dinner to talk about our former classmates, and I learned from Doreen that a lot of the members of the Class of 1968 are living in various parts of the world.

The next day I flew to Egypt where I was met by the United States ambassador. He introduced me to his pretty wife who had a lovely tan of which I was quite envious. I was amazed to find the ambassador's wife to be an old classmate, Rachel Stone. Rachel had always had such fair skin that she had never before been able to acquire a tan — she had always turned a bright pink!

After my visit with them I wanted to go to a place with a cooler climate and decided on Switzerland. Just before I got off the plane, I bumped into a stewardess and found her to be Mary Sloan. She told me that she was going to resign her job soon and marry the pilot and live in Maine. She told me that she was planning to have an unusual wedding ceremony which would be performed in an airplane.

After a rather brief glimpse of some of the beautiful scenery of Switzerland, I went by rocket to Spain in only ten minutes! I became curious when I saw a crowd of people gathered in a park. They seemed to be listening to a lecturer, so I wiggled through the crowd to the front and found that the speaker was Eddie Mace. He was talking on the subject of international agriculture. After he was through, we chatted for a while and he told me that Carolyn Shaffner and he had become very good friends. They had always argued interminably and fiercely as seniors at NCS D. Carolyn is living in Spain and is working as a secret agent for our country.

My next stop was Portugal, Spain's close neighbor. There I met Donna Little who has become the world's most eminent hair stylist. She offered to design a new hair-do for me without charge and when she finished, it really was gorgeous. I was surprised to see cute little Joyce Smith acting as her assistant. They both told me that our First Lady Libby Lawson, the wife of the president of the United States, was one of their best clients.

After I bid them goodbye, I decided to make a trip to Turkey. Imagine my surprise at running into Larry Swinney! I couldn't believe my eyes. Larry looks like a broomstick! I asked him to have dinner with me and, as he wolfed his food as has always been customary with him, he told me that he was going back to the States shortly. He said that he would have to wait for a time as he would have to go through some formalities because of the fact that he had been out of America for a good while. He regrets having lived in Turkey for so long. He said that life is hard down there. I wished him good luck before leaving for India.

I had heard a rumor that Trudy Eaves was living in India. I found her teaching very young deaf children there. She invited me to observe one of her classes. When school was out and the children didn't want to go home, it was obvious to me that the children all love her. While Trudy and I were walking along together after school, we saw Mike Suggs riding on an elephant. He didn't recognize me so Trudy told him who I was. He told me that the elephant is the best form of transportation that he has ever known. His occupation is that of one of the directors of Barnum and Bailey's circus. He was in India at that time to help put on a show. Benjamin Benson, as a "swinging clown, is one of the circus performers. The four of us had a cookout together before I had to depart from India.

I then headed for Japan. Upon arrival in Tokyo, I was roaming around when I saw a flower market. I decided to buy an orchid which has always been my favorite posy. The lady who owned the shop turned out to be Becky Smith and she gave me a beautiful orchid. We reminisced about our school days and she asked about several classmates. She told me that Charles Autrey is living in Japan and is a very successful architect. She persuaded me to have dinner with her and to spend the night and said that Charles would be having dinner with us. I am not accustomed to the eating utensils of the Japanese, so Becky provided me with a knife, fork, and spoon. Charles told me about his having designed many new structures in Japan and that the construction business there is booming.

Next I went to South Vietnam. On the ship I met Brenda Clark working in one of the shops aboard. She introduced me to the captain of the ship. It was Eric Tisdale and he had such a stern expression on his face that I didn't recognize him. When he asked me where I was going, I said South Vietnam and he told me that he hoped I had an interesting visit there.

The war had long been over in Vietnam and everything is being rebuilt. I found out that Johnny Rich is the head of a construction company. He is married and has four girls and two boys. He said that after he has completed his present job, he and his family are going to move to Canada.

I knew that it wouldn't be long before I'd have to start back home, but I decided on a quick trip to South America for a short stay. I went to Brazil first and took a sight-seeing bus. I noticed a cute little boy on the bus who was signing to his sister. They were signing in English, so I signed to them and they told me that they were the children of Tommy Britt. I knew that Tommy would be waiting to meet them at the bus station, so I decided to get out there and speak to him. I learned that he has a very good job as a pro football coach for a Brazilian team. He told me Linda Marley was working as a Presbyterian missionary in Peru. I paid her a visit and she told me all about her work. She also said that Craig Ensley and his wife and family were living in an underground apartment in Chile. I went to see them and was surprised to find that they have twin boys and twin girls. Their underground home is very comfortable, but I don't believe I'd want to live where I couldn't see the beauties of nature out of a window. When I was ready to leave for New York, the Ensley children wanted to go with me, but their parents said they were too young to make such a trip.

On the plane enroute to New York I crossed out the list of the names of the classmates whom I had already visited. There were only two left, Lynn Jackson and Marcella Wilson. I decided to spend the night in New York and make a short tour of the city. Walking down Broadway, I thought I'd go to a night club. Before I went in one, I looked at some pictures of some pretty girls displayed out front. I recognized one of the girls as Marcy Wilson. She is now a go-go girl. I went backstage to her dressing room and we exchanged warm greetings. She told me that Lynn Jackson was her director, and in just a few minutes he came in to check on her. After the last show they invited me to have dinner with them at one of New York's finest restaurants.

I really relaxed on the way back home to good old North Carolina. All of the names on my list had been marked off. My trip around the world, I felt, had been a worthwhile one.

Class Will

BY MARY SLOAN

Being of sound mind—we hope—we hereby declare this to be the last will and testament of the Class of 1968 of the North Carolina School for the Deaf.

Charles Autrey leaves his habitual courtesy to Val Lowery.

Benjamin Benson donates his ability to play basketball to Maroney Williams.

Tommy Britt bequeaths his love for driving on drag strips to Tommy Jackson and hopes that it won't jeopardize his nerve or the lack thereof.

Glenda Cable presents her vivacity and keen sense of humor to Cheryl Simmons.

Brenda Clark leaves her habit of going back to sleep after she has gotten up in the mornings to Judy Dilda.

Trudy Eaves gives her good study habits to Catherine Parrish.

Craig Ensley bequeaths his like for getting up early to go hunting to Marion Parris.

Lynn Jackson gives his seemingly unbreakable habit of smoking to Steve Warren.

Libby Lawson leaves her 21,849½ freckles to Mary Ann Fowler.

Donna Little gives her concern about her charming face to Neia White.

Eddie Mace leaves his being so talkative and argumentative to Carolyn Morgan.

Linda Marley bequeaths her being oblivious to everything often-times to Anne Potter.

James Meek leaves his desire for continuously straightening up his room to Donnie Crump.

Johnny Rich donates his habit of playing the field with the girls to Dallas Partin.

Doreen Rogers bequeaths her striving to keep from putting on weight to Jean Spence.

Linda Sanders donates her scholastic ability to Ann Young.

Carolyn Shaffner bequeaths her admirable habit of keeping her nose in a book to the many students who dislike reading.

Mary Sloan gives her way of trying to be helpful to others to Judy Foust.

Becky Smith leaves her quiet demeanor to Melba Snow.

Rachel Stone gives her ability of being sneaky enough to stay out of trouble to Barbara Oxendine.

Larry Swinney bequeaths his obesity to Dickie Glover.

Eric Tisdale gives his habit of eyeing the girls all the time to Robert Autry.

Marcella Wilson offers her wild opinions on a variety of subjects to Linda Dixon.

Thanks To Sponsors

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crutchfield

Mrs. Anne Starrett

To our three dedicated and devoted sponsors, the members of the Class of 1968 want to express our deep appreciation and endless thanks for the tremendous help they have been to us and for all their diligent efforts which made our year a most pleasurable and memorable one.

We wish to express our great gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Crutchfield for giving so much of their time in making our junior year a most profitable one and for making our Jr.-Sr. Prom a highly successful one. They made an abundant contribution toward our Washington trip, which was interesting, pleasurable, and very educational.

We donate our deep thanks to Mrs. Starrett for her valuable contribution toward our education, for helping us prepare for the Gallaudet entrance examination, and for working with us on our annual.
